Sam Davidson Re-elected By Young Farmers

Sam Davidson, of Route 4, Appomattox, has been re-elected president of the Appomattox Young Farmer Association for the year of 1955. Other officers elected at the January meeting of the group were Jack Stratton as vice-president, and Fred Jones, as secretary - treasurer. Sam Davidson and Bill Williamson were chosen to represent the Appomattox Association at the Annual State Young Farmers Convention to be held this year in the Jefferson Hotel, Richmond, on Friday and Saturday, February 18 and 19. W. Lewis Motley, acting advisor of the local association plans to attend the convention with the delegates.

The Young Farmer Association is made up of out-of-school young men engaged in farming, who by joining together in an organization continue their education toward being better farmers and better citizens. It is a non-political organization formed strictly for educational, recreational, and social purposes, with education for better farming as the main theme.

The next meeting of the local club will be held on Wednesday night, February 16, at 7:30 o'clock. A discussion of fertilizers and recommendations from the Experiment station to be led by president Sam Davidson is planned for this meeting. A movie will probably also be shown. The program of work for the year .955 includes such items as a study of local soils and their best use to prevent erosion, entering a District Young Farmer Land Appreciation Contest, encouraging the use of Young Farmer and F. F. A. bulls for the purpose of breeding higher quality livestock.

The program also calls for visiting the Area Experiment Station to learn the latest improved practices, encouraging members to use purebred sires in breeding their livestock, have each member make up a plan for landscaping his farmstead, encourage and support bloodmobile visits, enter Young Farmer of the Year contest, enter forestry contest, and hold a chicken or fish fry in the spring or fall or both.

MARCH MEETING TO HEAR HUNTING PROPOSALS

Although always given wide publicity, many fail to realize that the March meeting of the Virginia Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries is the time for sugestions or protests in matters pertaining to hunting regulations for the ensuing season. This meeting is scheduled for March 11, in the hearing room of the building at 7 North Second Street, Richmond.

Efforts have to be made early in the year to arrive at conclusions in reference to seasons, bag limits, etc., in order that regulations may be printed and distributed throughout the state in advance of the opening of the hunting seasons. Proposals for changes in fishing regulations are heard at the October meeting.

The Commision welcomes expressions from hunters and their organizations and from interested conservationists in setting up hunting regulations. It is often true that perplexing questions arise and the Commission has to use its best judgment as a quasi-judicial body.

Most of the folks we know anticipate and plan to be vastly happy at some future period or other, when they have more time. Seems as though the only time we can really be sure of is today. Reckon it might be better to plan a little happiness for ourselves and others on a by day basis, beginning now.

MIGRATORY BIRD COUNT IN VIRGINIA

Ernest R. Atkinson, U. S. Game Management Agent, with headquarters at Tappahannock, who has been assembling information on the migratory waterfowl population, says that the post-season count for January 1955 was 91,740 less than the previous year's count. He estimated that there were about 29 per cent fewer ducks than in the 1954 census for Virginia.

In the opinion of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries, this does not necessarily mean that there were fewer ducks and geese which came to Virginia during the past season. Because of the springlike weather which prevailed during the last few weeks of the open season, large numbers of waterfowl vacated Virginia waters for other areas. As a result of these climatic conditions there were 300,000 more birds in the North Carolina count for January 1955 than in 1954.

SAWDUST MULCHES STUDIED AT STATION

Sawdust mulch, generally speaking, has had beneficial effects when used on vegetable crops in tests at VPI Agricultural Experiment Station.

Horticulturists at the station say there has been increased yields of certain vegetables (cucumbers, tomatoes, snap beans, and lettuce) a saving of soil moisture, and fewer soil temperature fluctuations, where sawdust mulches were used. The sawdust has caused no appreciable change in soil pH, or in the relative amounts of calcium, magnesium, phosphoric acid, and potash present in the soil.

Incorporation of sawdust into the soil may result in a nitrate deficiency. However, the deficiency can be corrected by using fertilizers containing nitrogen.

In the test, which started in 1952, a one-inch layer of sawdust is applied as a soil cover each spring, and is turned under each fall.

Eleven vegetable crops are grown and studied on clean cultivated plots and on sawdust mulched plots.

CHURCH NEWS

Rev. Leitner Resigns From New Hope Field

The Rev. John P. Leitner has resigned as pastor of the New Hope field of Baptist churches and will leave here February 15 to become pastor of the Central Hill Baptist Church in Isle of Wight County.

Mr. and Mrs. Leitner came to the New Hope field from Portsmouth in February, 1948. The field includes New Hope, Liberty Chapel, Chestnut Grove and Concord Baptist churches.

At the new pastorate, Mr. and Mrs. Leitner will serve just one church, which is near Smithfield. Their new address will be Windsor, Va., Route 3.

During the stay of Mr. and Mrs. Leitner here, marked progress has been made on the New Hope field. All four of the churches have enlarged their facilities under their leadership, and Concord church has erected a new building. New Hope expanded its plant by addition of a new basement, modern heating system and other improvements. The Liberty Chapel building was completely renovated, with new floors, pews and church furniture. New Sunday School rooms were added at Chestnut Grove and the building modernized.

There has also been an increase in membership on the field, and a sizeable increase in offerings for missions. This is particularly outstanding at New Hope. The field is rated as one of the strongest rural fields in this area.

Mr. and Mrs. Leitner have won many friends during their stay here and the good will of people of all denominations will go with them to their new field of service.

ALFALFA TEA USED AS CURE FOR ARTHRITIS

(From The Rural New Yorker)
"Rambling Along At Long Acres"
by L. B. Reber

The barn may not look like a schoolhouse but there are lessons we can learn out there. Since we have been on the farm, we have had quite a number of cows. From late Spring until late Fall, they slept on the damp ground of the barnyard, often drenched with rain, sometimes coming in with their backs covered with snow. Yet I never knew a cow to have arthritis. Some time ago as an old farmer down in Indiana stood in his cow barn, rubbing his aching joints with horse liniment, he got to thinking that over. He decided that there must be something in the cow's diet, so he began to experiment. It took a long time but he finally found the answer. He told his neighbors, the neighbors told their neighbors and that word spread all over the midwest. In a hospital check-up, they told me that I had chronic arthritis of the spine but all the medicine I got was some anti-pain pills. Then, I heard about this cure through some Indiana friends and in a short time I was back on the job and have been working ever since.

If you are afflicted with arthritis or just plain old fashioned rheumatism, here is what thousands of us out this way are doing. Get some alfalfa seed, but be sure it has not been chemically treated. Put a small tea cup full in two quarts of water and boil it down to one quart. Run it through a strainer and squeeze out the juice. Then take a couple swallows of the liquid before meals, twice a day. That is all there is to it.

As usual, in this icy season, the swim-suit manufacturers are unveiling their models, or a substantial portion thereof. — Changing Times.

"This is a garage," said an excited voice on the telephone, "and your wife just drove in here to have her car repaired and I want. . . ."

"Okay, okay," interrupted the husband, "I'll pay for it."

"Who's worrying about that," said the voice. "I'm trying to find out who's going to pay to fix up my garage." —Louisville Courier-Journal Mag.

WRESTLING TONIGHT

Lynchburg, Feb. 10.- When the Smith Brothers and the tag team of Mr. Moto and Kinji Shibuya tangle for the third time in three weeks at Lynchburg's City Armory tonight, a winner should come out of the proceedings—something that hasn't happened in their two recent meetings.

The first week they met, police stepped in and broke up a "knock-'em down, drag'em out" brawl. Last week, before the match could get going, a free for fall, involving not only the scheduled performers but four other wrestlers, promotor Charlie Laye and the referee broke out and the match was declared "no contest." This week, instead of a tag team match, it'll be a team match with all four wrestlers in the ring with a pair of referees and under Texas rules—tantamount to "everything goes."

Whenever a wrestler is pinned, he should leave the ring—the rules and regulations say——leaving his partner to take on the remaining two grapplers. No fall is registered until both men are pinned. And, tonight's event is scheduled to be a best two of three falls, without a time limit.

FOOTBALL BANQUET

The annual football banquet to honor the A. H. S. football team and Coach Gordon Bragg will be held tonight by the Appomattox Lions Club. John McKenna, the head football coach at Virginia Military Institute, will be the principal banquet speaker.

The affair is slated for 6:45 at the school cafeteria.
